 (FOR KEY SEE REVERSE)

1. A Soviet fuel depot was located close to Neuheim (formerly Dorf Zinna), where there had been a German fuel depot during the war. 25X1
2. It was impossible to see inside the depot as it was located in a hollow and surrounded by trees. (See Number 1 on sketch below.) It is, therefore, not known whether the fuel containers were underground or on the surface. 25X1
3. It was impossible to enter the depot as the gates were guarded by Soviet sentries. 25X1
4. The only motor vehicles seen going in and out were tank trucks.
5. There was a Soviet detachment in the village; the men wore black shoulderboard without insignia.
